

ZAKI IS DEAD

"We have spent a lot of money on my medical treatment... Sometimes we don't even have 5 or 10 rupees for tea or medicines. I was very healthy before the gas... Sometimes it would go away and I would think that I would get better..."

Many survivors of the gas leak face chronic respiratory illness, and many of them have died as a consequence. One year ago, Zaki Mohammed was receiving treatment at the Jawaharlal Nehru Hospital, built in Bhopal exclusively for gas-affected patients. Despite the treatment he received, Zaki did not get better and died in 2004 aged 53.
